Successful Test of Submarine Boat Fulton in New York. A dispatch from New York yesterday says: In the presence of a big crowd, which, despite the storm, assembled to wit-ness the emerging of the submarine boat Fulton, that craft rose from the bottom of the Peconic bay, which is at the eastern end of Long island, this morning at 10:30 o'clock, with all well and greatly surprised to find there was a storm raging.

The test of the Fulton's staying powers was highly satisfactory not only to the offioers of the company that built her and the naval officers present, but to those who went to the bottom in the boat. They say there was not the slightest discomfort to them during their more than fifteen hours of submersion beneath the surface. Capa Cable of the Holland Company, who was in command, said that the boat could have remained down for three months if there was food enough on board. Al-though there was but six feet of water over the top of the turnet, those on board felt nothing of the storm. Through the felt nothing of the storm. Through the night there was a slight rolling motion to the craft, but this was ascribed to the regular motion of the water and not to the disturbance which was rolling the waves high on the shore.

Immediately on coming to the surface, the Fulton, under her own power, ran alongside the dock and tied up. Rear Admiral Lowe and Lieut. Arthur MacArthur refused to go into any discussion of the performance of the boat, except to say they would be satisfied to stay down longer.

A silver handkerchief case of artistic enced no difficulty in breathing, and that the air was all that could be desired and much purer and better than in an ordinary closed room in which are several personal Every plece of machinery worked to perfection during the night. The men ate two meals while under water and enjoyed them. Most of them obtained three or four hours sleep.
